coming back for a return engagement of half a week in August.

The scenic equipment of the Bungalow, and with the exception of one or two players, the members of the Mack company at that house are scarcely adequate to a successful production of a society play calling for fashionable appearing drawing rooms, smart frocks, and clever acting. In fact, Mary Hall is anything but satisfying in her own work in "The Climbers" this week. The Fitch play is a clever satire, bordering almost on the farcical, on society, and the atmosphere which comes with elaborate stage settings, costly gowns, and the other accessories of rich society homes, is decidedly essential to its entertaining presentation. These things are just as decidedly lacking at the Bungalow, though there is one redeeming feature of the production—the work of Mr. Heffron. He is a finished, forceful, and versatile actor, and his characterizations for the past two or three weeks have been exceptionally well handled.

Tomorrow night Ralph Stuart, an actor who has at different times been associated with the leading stock companies of the west, and who was last seen here in the leading role in "Strongheart," opens at the Bungalow in his own play, "By Right of Sword." Mr. Stuart will be Miss Hall's leading man for several weeks. "By Right of Sword" is a story of Russian intrigue, and has been well received elsewhere in the past. The engagement will be for a week.

Those fortunate enough to have seen Richard Anthony's clever conceit, "A Message From Mars" when it was presented here several seasons ago, will remember the play as one of the most interesting of the better class of attractions of the latter-day shows. The play will be presented at the Colonial next week, the engagement opening tomorrow night, at regular prices. The presenting company is said to be one of the best yet seen in "A Message From Mars," and is headed by a young English comedian, Berresford Lovett, who is making his first American tour this season.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to match Kid Hartley and Young Pollock for a twenty round go to a decision, to see which is really the head of the better exchange? It might be well, also, to donate the funds to the Y. M. C. A., and this would not only make it easier for some of the committees, but would settle the question that has agitated a large number of traders, namely, when a broker is not a broker; or whether the present exchange is an exchange, or whether the new exchange is a real estate deal. There seems to be a difference of opinion.
